Systems Librarian Milcah Gikunju (right) with her colleagues discussing 2016 usage statistics for their library at University of Nairobi, Kenya. The photo was taken during the Monitoring and Evaluation of E-Resource Use (MEERU) online course, conducted by INASP from 24 January to 20 March 2017.

The course was designed for libraries which are members of a library consortium in INASP’s partner countries and already offer an electronic resource service to their academic and research communities. More than 100 librarians in nine African countries completed the course which was offered on INASP's Moodle platform [8].
